

Dr. Fernando Maluf completed a medical course at the Faculty of Medical Sciences of Santa Casa de São Paulo, followed by a medical residency at the Clinical Hospital of the University of São Paulo Medical School, and a fellowship in clinical oncology at the Sloan Kettering Cancer Memorial Center of New York. PhD in Sciences / PhD in Urology by FMUSP. Associate member of the American Cancer Society.

He was Head of the Medical Residency Program in Clinical Oncology and a member of the Oncology Center of the Sírio Libanês Hospital.

He is currently Director of the Clinical Oncology Service of BP Mirante Hospital / SP; Member of the Steering Committee of the Hospital Israelita Albert Einstein (HIAE) / SP and Coordinator of the Department of Oncology Hospital Santa Lúcia / Brasília. Recently, in December 2018, he received the academic qualification of Free Professor, by the Faculty of Medical Sciences of Santa Casa de São Paulo.