

Sallie McAdoo, MS, CGC
United States

Sallie McAdoo is the Medical Director at Kidney Cancer Association. As a genetic counselor, she has always maintained a focus on patient education and empowerment, making her role at the KCA a perfect fit. By bridging together healthcare provider and patient resources, she hopes her role at KCA will lead to earlier means of disease detection, increased awareness for rare kidney cancer types and populations, and multicenter collaboration efforts in research and care. Prior to taking on her role at the KCA, Sallie cared for patients at various academic and private institutions, before switching to a medical affairs role at various diagnostic companies specializing in thyroid and lung cancer, idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis, stem cell research, and reproductive genetics. She has authored multiple scientific abstracts and papers and given over 400 talks worldwide.
