

Dr Saurabh Bhargava

MBBS, MRCS, MD, FRCS (Urology)

Director of Urological Services and Chief Medical Superintendent

Dr. Saurabh Bhargava currently serves as the Director of Urological Services and Chief Medical Superintendent at the Narayana Health City in Bangalore, India.

Dr. Bhargava is a 1995 graduate from the Bangalore Medical College. He completed his Urological training from the Nottingham University Hospitals. He was awarded the FRCS (Urology) from the Inter Collegiate Specialty Board before taking up a full-time post as a Consultant Urological Surgeon with special interest in Uro-Oncology.

He has special interest in prostate and kidney cancer, he enjoys training and has been instrumental in developing robotic surgery training program. In addition to his clinical work, Dr. Bhargava has made significant contributions to medical research. He completed a MD research fellowship at the University of Sheffield, where he developed tissue engineered buccal mucosa for clinical use in substitution urethroplasty. His work marked a significant advancement in urological reconstruction, and remains one of the first published work in this field. He continues to be closely involved with laboratory based research and is currently involved with developing human histo-culture platforms for looking at therapeutic options for patients with kidney and prostate cancer.